

Welcome to the film community of Washington State! We are lucky and thrilled to have you in the area. Allow us to share some of the available resources so that you can experience the benefits that come with participating in our local film community.

Sign up for Washington Filmworks Newsletter and Blog. Washington Filmworks is the non-profit 501(c)(6) organization that manages the state film and production incentive programs. <http://www.washingtonfilmworks.org/index.php/News/WFNewsletter/> and <http://blog.washingtonfilmworks.org/>

List your information on the Northwest Production Index. The NW Production Index is an online directory of film, video and audio production resources, from production companies to post houses. <http://nwfilm.com/>

If you live in the greater Seattle area consider these possibilities:

Sign up for the Seattle Office of Film + Music Newsletter. The Seattle Office of Film & Music is the film permit agency for Seattle and is devoted to promoting Seattle's film and music industries. <http://www.seattle.gov/filmandmusic/news/>

Sign up for the Seattle International Film Festival Newsletter. The Seattle International Film Festival creates experiences that bring people together to discover extraordinary films from around the world. <http://www.siff.net/account/e-news.aspx>

Sign up for the Women in Film Seattle Newsletter. Women in Film Seattle is a non-profit organization of professional women in the film, video, and new media fields who are dedicated to helping filmmakers through support, education, and professional connection. <http://archive.constantcontact.com/fs047/1104054711572/archive/1111187032406.html>

Check out the Northwest Film Forum Call Board. The Film Forum is a film arts organization that screens independently made and classic films, offers a year-round schedule of filmmaking classes, and supports filmmakers at all stages of their careers. <http://nwfilmforum.org/live/collection/resources/101>

Attend the monthly Film, Music and Interactive Happy Hour. It is a meet up for leaders in film, music and interactive industries to educate, share experiences, and make meaningful business connections. Typically, this event takes place on the last Wednesday of the month. <http://www.seattle.gov/filmandmusic/happyhour/>

Like us all on Facebook!

Check out the Facebook pages for everyone listed above. We are also aware of several reliable pages regarding film work in Washington, they are: 'Production Peeps', 'Seattle Area Filmmaker Alliance', and 'The Film Maker Matrix'. WF is not affiliated with these pages, which are privately administered.

We look forward to welcoming you personally at the next Film, Music and Interactive Happy Hour!
